KANSAS PACIFIC STOCK SALE

Democrats Want the President to Bid.

The Union Pacific and the Government.

The Opposition Want to Compel the Latter to Take and Operate It.

WASHINGTON, February 4.—This was private bill day in the house, but the systematic filibustering of the private calendar containing the bills reported by the committee on claims was not reported, the whole day being consumed in passing eighteen of the twenty-four private pension bills favorably acted upon by the house at the session last Friday night.

During the consideration of one of the bills an interesting discussion of the approaching sale of the Kansas Pacific set for February 17th was precipitated by Mr. Fleming, Democrat of Georgia, who, with his Democratic colleagues, desired legislation to require the President to bid the full amount, principal and interest. Mr. Powers, chairman of the Pacific Railroad Commission, contended that the real purpose of the opposition was to compel the government to take the road and operate it. He said the administration which had secured every dollar owing from the Union Pacific could be safely trusted to protect the government's interest at the sale of the Kansas Pacific.

Mr. Fleming, during the consideration of one of the pension bills, took advantage of the latitude allowed for debate to discuss the question of protecting the government's interest at the approaching sale of the Kansas Pacific road. The claim of the government, he said, was over $18,000,000 and while it was claimed that the road would be paralleled for $6,000,000, he said that the engineer who built the road, Senator Harris, of Kansas, estimated its value at from $25,000,000 to $30,000,000.

The average earnings of the road for the past ten years, $1,255,675, were 4 per cent interest on $30,000,000. Mr. Shattuck, Republican of Ohio, said, while Senator Harris might be a very competent civil engineer, he knew no more about computing the earnings or value of a railroad than the portrait alongside of the speaker's chair.

"Did you hear his speech on the Pacific railroads?" asked Mr. Shafroth, Silver Republican of Colorado.

"I read it," replied Mr. Shattuck, "and there is nothing in it. It is wind; nothing more."

Mr. Fleming said Mr. Harris, by the facts he had furnished the government, had saved the treasury $27,000,000 on the sale of the Union Pacific.

"The press of the country built a fire under the administration," said he, "and forced it to act."

Mr. Fleming said he had appealed to the speaker and to Mr. Powers, the chairman of the Pacific railroad commission, to aid the consideration of the measure reported by the committee.

"They were both courteous," said Mr. Fleming, "but I failed to get the speaker to use his influence with Mr. Powers or Mr. Powers to use his influence with the speaker. On yesterday I tried to get recognition from the speaker. Today when I did get recognition it availed nothing, but the chairman of the committee, Mr. Powers, said he would object."

Continuing, Mr. Fleming said he did not consider it commensurate with the dignity of the public to waive aside indifferently the millions involved. If the sale took place and the government only bid the principal of the debt, the responsibility would be on the majority.

He only hope that re-named, he said, lay in the press. It could force the administration as it did in the case of the Union Pacific. Mr. Maguire, Democrat of California, said the law required that the government should collect the full amount of the debt or take the road and he believed the law should be obeyed.

"In other words, you want government ownership of railroads," interposed Mr. Dalzell, Republican of Pennsylvania.

"I want to collect the government debt," replied Mr. Maguire.

"We had better have government ownership of railroads than railroad ownership of government," cried Mr. Terry, Democrat of Arkansas.

Mr. Powers, Republican of Vermont, chairman of the Pacific railroad, denied that he had stated earlier in the day that the administration desired no further legislation. He alleged that the whole purpose of those who were opposing the sale was the government ownership and operation of railroads.

"The gentleman has heard me to little purpose for the past five years," interrupted Mr. Maguire. "If he imagines I desire government operation of railroads, I am in favor of the government owning the highways of commerce, but not of operating trains any more than wagons."

"I am glad the gentleman had made his proposition more ridiculous than I could," observed Mr. Powers.

Mr. Bailey, Democrat of Texas, objected to Mr. Powers' statement of the position of the Democrats. He said it was not a question of sacrificing the government's debt or government ownership and operation of railroads.

"On this side," said he, "we believe the government can collect the debt, and as a prudent creditor that it should collect every dollar of it."

Continuing, Mr. Powers said he did not believe the administration should be required to bid the full amount of the debt, principal and interest. The officers of the government had full scope and he was willing to trust the matter to the officials who had obtained every dollar due from the Union Pacific.

At 5 p. m. the house recessed until 8 o'clock, the evening session to be devoted to the consideration of private pension bills.

NOT A CUBAN.

Major Faim Tries to Set Himself Right With Spain.

HAVANA, February 4.—Major Henry W. Faim of the insurgent forces, who surrendered to the Spanish authorities at Gibara, arrived here this evening. He denies that he received or requested pay from the insurgents or that he ever belonged to the United States army, as at first reported. He is an American and belongs to a New York family, who he is about to visit. He landed in Cuba a year ago near Baracoa. The insurgents in that district, he says, are well supplied with provisions and ammunition, but are badly off for clothing. He never saw General Maximo Gomez, but served under Insurgent Leader Vidal.

WHERE IS WELBURN?

Special Agent Thrasher Looking for Him.

SAN FRANCISCO, February 4.—Suit will be brought next week against the bondsmen of ex-Collector Welburn to recover for the government money squandered by Cashier Norton, who committed suicide after he had embezzled about $42,000.

The whereabouts of Welburn are still unknown, although a deputy United States marshal has gone to Texas for him with a warrant for his arrest on the indictment found by the United States grand jury against him last Tuesday.

Special Agent Thrasher has left the city, ostensibly to visit Los Angeles on department business, but it is believed that he has gone on a hunt for the ex-collector.

HORSES THIS TIME

Germany Is Still Growing Exclusive.

American Horses May Convey Influenza Into the Fatherland If Not Quarantined.

WASHINGTON, February 4.—When the cable ac to the prospective quarantine of American horses was shown to Hitt of the house foreign affairs committee, he said this move was clearly a part of the general movement towards exclusion shown by the recent action against American fruit. His colleague on the foreign affairs committee, Mr. Adams of Pennsylvania, said the dispatch suggested that it was time to discover a bacillus in German wines, and it would be desirable also to determine as to the sanitary character of the process of making German sugar sent to the United States.

Mr. Cousins of Iowa, another member of the foreign affairs committee, said: "Our state department should give distinct notice that if there is any desire to stop trade with us this should be in a straightforward way, and not by indirectly attacking our products on sanitary grounds."

Chairman Dingley of the ways and means committee said this was in line with the German action on American fruit. Quarantine was not an absolute prohibition, however, and it remained to be seen whether a quarantine so vigorous as to be a prohibition would be put in force.

The officials of the agricultural department emphatically discredit the probability of American horses carrying the influenza into Germany and say that if they do develop it after importation it is contracted from animals in that country. The statements of the German minister of agriculture, Secretary Wilson says, are unwarranted.

Dr. Salmon, chief of the bureau of animal industry, said:

"So far as the department of agriculture is aware, there is no influenza prevailing in this country. It is a disease common to horses and possibly may be present in places of which we have no information, but this is improbable. The horses which are exported are not inspected, but if an animal has the disease it will recover or die before the trans-Atlantic journey is made. The period of the duration of the disease is about two weeks."

The growth of the shipments of American horses to Europe in the past few years has been enormous. These shipments in 1897 aggregate in value $4,705,265, as against $718,607 in 1893. The value of those sent to Germany in 1897 was $322,250, as compared with $79,950 in 1893.

BERLIN, February 4.—The official statement of the Reichsanzeiger on the subject of the measures taken to prevent the transportation of affected American fruit was communicated tonight to the officials of the United States embassy.

The Agrarian newspapers thank the government for the prohibition.

The Tageblatt asks why the importation of healthy living plants is prohibited, and says: "Such extreme measures will doubtless provoke retaliation."

The United States embassy was entertained at dinner this evening by Baron Von Cramm-Burgdorf, the minister of Brunswick.

BERLIN, February 4.—Referring to utterances of United States Senators and Representatives on the subject, especially to Congressman Dingley's remarks that Prussia had prohibited American fruits in order to avoid the provisions of the commercial treaties, the Cologne Gazette says: The German fruit growers' supplies are generally sold out, and therefore there is no ground for speaking of flooding the German market with American fruit.

After all, every one acquainted with German relations knows that Prince Hohenlohe, the German chancellor, could in no circumstances approve a measure which had the appearance of even internal violation or limitation of commercial treaties and that, on the contrary, his prompt declaration was that the treatment of German sugar imported into the United States was in violation of Germany's right.

OUR STEVE IS EXHAUSTED

Has Completed His Long Argument.

Hawaii Should Not Be Annexed.

Master and Servant Regulations on the Islands a Species of Slavery.

WASHINGTON, February 4.—Senator White concluded his three-days' speech in opposition to the annexation of Hawaii in the executive session of the senate today. At the beginning of today's speech he made some additional points against the advisability of Hawaii for defensive purposes, saying it is 500 miles from the outside islands of the group to other islands. This fact, he said, demonstrated that numerous points must be guarded from hostile assault and that a powerful navy would be required to accomplish this; that the immense expenditures will be without benefit to our defense on the continent. He declared that if Hawaii would be acquired, it would be contended that our demands should be extended to other islands, and we would finally embark upon the foreign acquisition business, involving an outlay of hundreds of millions of dollars.

He then took up the question of labor, contending that the Chinese and Japanese are receiving $15 per month without board. He ridiculed the pretension that the Anglo-Saxon race could not labor in Hawaiian sugar fields and demanded to know why, if they could, there was so much white labor on the islands now. He read from a recent consular report to show that the coffee business was at best problematical, and that even in this work, laborers only received $15 per month without board.

He denounced the master and servant regulations now in force on the islands, as a species of slavery; said that coffee must be produced in competition with the lowest grade of peon toilers and that the time would never come when a farm hand on a coffee plantation would receive the white man's wages. He also asserted that the Japanese have the same right to come into the United States enjoyed by other foreigners and the white contract laborers of all kinds are excluded, still there is no obstacle to the entry of the ordinary laborer who complies with our general immigration laws, and said that if annexation were brought about cheap labor would still denominate the situation in Hawaii.

He denounced as absurd the assertion that trade would be diverted from the United States if annexation were defeated and said that even with the present treaty out of the way Hawaii would do business with the United States; that when the McKinley bill was in force they still traded with the United States. He compared the growing trade of Japan to that of Hawaii, showing that cotton, flour and manufacturers of iron and steel were fast occupying the Japanese market. He denied that there were any valuable agricultural possibilities to justify annexation.

Mr. White then took up the Dole government, insisting that it was irregular and a fraud. He said in this connection that it was universally conceded that the Hawaiian natives were well educated and would be citizens of this country in case of annexation, and contended that they should be consulted. He read from the proceedings with relation to the admission of Texas to show that the constitution providing for annexation and the specific question of annexation was submitted to a popular vote. That whatever might be the rule as to barbarous tribes or portions of territories held by monarchies, it was clear that here where the validity of the government is challenged and when the people have never had opportunity to vote upon the question of admission, that no affirmative action could be taken.

This government, based upon the will of the people could not, he said, afford to incorporate a large number of persons, who would be eligible to citizenship, against their will. He read from Judge Cooley and several other writers in support of his views and declared again that the entire power behind the throne was the sugar combination of Hawaii, whose personal interests had, he said, always been consulted, regardless of the effect upon the public. He criticized the action of President Dole in coming to Washington at such time and said he asked what would have been thought of the taste of the Prince of the Prince of Wales had he come here at the time the treaty of arbitration was under consideration for the purpose of influencing our action.

He reviewed at length the general policies and theories of our government, declared that the question was above all politics, and that it was a step which if taken, could not add to our glory or increase our wealth, or be regarded as an evidence of our honesty.

Senator White quoted at length from a speech made in the senate in 1894 by Senator Turpie of Indiana, in which the senator said that however desirable the acquisition of the islands might be, the United States could not afford to take them, by stealth, by any process of furtive gilded larceny sprung from the bandit maxim, miscalled the policy of success."

Entertained the President.

WASHINGTON, February 4.—Secretary and Mrs. Bliss this evening entertained the President and Mrs. McKinley and members of the cabinet at a dinner, which in point of service and decorations was one of the most elaborate ever given in Washington. Covers were laid for forty.

LIKE DURRANT.

A Murderer Dies Protesting His Innocence.

HILLSBORO, Or., February 4.—Gus Machlin, the murderer of John Ledgdrick, was hanged here at noon today.

When on the scaffold Machlin said: "What I wish to say is that the statement I made is a true statement. I am innocent of the crime of which I am convicted. I ask the Lord Jesus to take me as I am."

Seventeen minutes after the trap was sprung the body was cut down.

Invitations were sent out to about 150 persons, but when the doors were opened leading to the enclosure where the scaffold was erected, about 500 people pushed their way in and witnessed the execution.

Not Public Land.

SAN FRANCISCO, February 4.—The supreme court today affirmed the decision of the superior court in the case of the city of Sacramento vs. T. J. Clunie. In this suit a portion of Sacramento known as Brannan's addition was in dispute. The city claimed that the land had been dedicated to public use. The superior court decided that it had not been so dedicated and the supreme court has sustained that decision.

Too Much Canned Goods.

RIVERSIDE, February 4. — Coroner Sherman returned today from the Chucka Walla mountains, where he went some days ago to inquire into the death of a miner named Oscar Johnson. The inquest showed that death resulted from eating canned meats and fruits. There was no evidence of foul play, as was at first feared.

Held up at the Depot.

STOCKTON, February 4.—John Hiler, a laborer from the Tesla mines, came into town today with his earnings, about $90, and handed the coin over to a couple of robbers who stood him up at the Southern Pacific depot and demanded his cash. The thieves then jumped on a delayed train going north and escaped.

A TEMPTING PLAN

Americans to Pacify Cuba.

Scheme to Enlist Men in the Northwest for Peaceful Conquest.

MINNEAPOLIS, February 4.—A special to the Journal from Aberdeen, S. D., says:

John Patterson of Minneapolis, who is well known throughout the northwest, is working quietly, but persistently, upon a scheme to take 100,000 men to Cuba and land them there on the Fourth of July. He says he is backed by a syndicate of Americans who have large interests in the islands and claims these Americans are anxious to cut up their large holdings and dispose of small plantations to able-bodied men. They require no cash down and all the money the intended purchaser needs is enough to pay his expenses to Cuba, which, as Patterson says, will be nominal.

He says there will be enough steamers at New Orleans July 4th to carry the 100,000 excursionists to Havana and ports on the islands where they can land. They guarantee protection from Spanish interference from New Orleans to Cuba, and when the men arrive they will be such a formidable body that Spain will not dare to interfere with the peaceful pursuits the immigrants intend to pursue. If an attempt should be made to interfere the men will be instructed to arm themselves and protect their rights.

The company's agent claims that a vast amount of money has been lost by American property owners over there because the Spaniards would not allow them to work their plantations. They intend to place a man on every few acres and if he stands for his rights and works the property he will become the absolute owner of his plantation in a few years. The company guarantees to furnish machinery and arm them if it becomes necessary. Mr. Patterson says he has been very successful in securing men.

NOT BIG ENOUGH.

Los Angeles Cannot Yet Escape Police Courts.

LOS ANGELES, February 4.—The opinion on the case of Ah Louie against Police Judge Owens, involving the legality of the local police courts, was handed down by the superior court today.

The opinion is written by Judge Shaw and is concurred in by Judges Van Dyke, Clark and Allen.

The plaintiff's application for a writ of prohibition to prevent the defendant as police judge from trying Ah Louie on a charge of criminal misdemeanor, on the ground that Los Angeles has outgrown the class of cities for which police courts were founded, is denied. The courts will stand as now constituted.

ALASKAN SALES VERY ACTIVE

Export Trade in Cereals is Small.

Bradstreet's and Dun's Weekly Reports.

Business Failures Little Above the Normal—Iron Manufacture Gaining Strength.

NEW YORK, February 4.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say: Severely cold weather, accompanied by high winds and heavy snow, has been a feature exercising considerable influence upon the movement and distribution of staple goods this week. The northern and western states appear to have felt the effects of the storm most severely.

In spite of this interruption of business, a satisfactory trade for the season is reported in most lines, with special activity reported in the iron and steel trades and kindred lines. In the East the distribution of drygoods and wool has been checked and the movement of produce greatly interfered with, but the tone of the cotton goods situation is, if anything, improved.

In the Middle states and in the central west the movement of iron into consumption is still very large, but nervousness as to possible over-production affects that market. Steel is slightly lower at the East, but firmly held at Chicago, which also reports advances in iron bars, wire and nails.

Western mills will not agree to deliver steel rails, billets or rods on new orders before July 1st. In the northwest butter trade is reported and cold weather has helped the distribution of seasonable goods. At the South trade is reported improved at several important centers and the total of January business is said to be above the average.

Alaskan business on the Pacific coast is still very active but export trade in cereals is small. Rain is needed in California or crops will be considerably shortened. Steadiness in prices has been a feature of the week, the only decrease noted being in wheat, corn and flour on a speculative reaction and in lead, while the price of oats, pork, beef and coffee are higher.

The export movement of cereals shows a falling off for the week, but is still ahead of the same week of preceding years. The total shipments of wheat, flour included, amount to $3,433,704 bushels against 5,026,000 bushels last week, 3,168,000 bushels in this week a year ago and 2,907,000 bushels in 1896.

Business failures, though slightly larger than last week, numbering 295, against 288 the week before, are little above the normal. They compare with a total number failing in the corresponding week of 1897 of 305 and in 1896 of 333.

NEW YORK, February 4.—R. G. Dun & Co.' weekly review of trade will say in its issue tomorrow:

Actual payments through clearing houses in January made a remarkable showing, being much larger than in any previous month, 36.3 per cent larger than the same month last year, and 7.1 per cent larger than in 1892. The failures in January were smaller than in any previous year of which there is record, and were probably smaller than in any other January since 1881.

The statement by branches of business given this week show a surprising gain in most departments of manufacture and trade. Meanwhile the money market is as confident as ever; gold does not come from Europe in large amount only because bankers find it worth while to lend money abroad, and the balances are heavily in favor of the United States.

Perhaps the most striking feature of the week has been the decline in wheat. With exports of 3,094,517 against 1,770,546 last year, flour included, from Atlantic ports and 776,840 from Pacific ports, against 443,000 last year, the temper of the market has been weaker. The report of the agricultural department has had some influence, although its figures are not generally credited as reliable. The wheat market has turned largely upon the operation of a Chicago speculator, but the fact remains that the price depends largely upon foreign needs and upon the comparative scaricity of American supply.

The iron and steel manufacture is steadily gaining in consumption of pig iron, although the production of the material is still in excess of immediate demands, but not enough to cause a decline in prices in Pittsburg or Chicago. Even the Southern producers are able to get a fair price at Chicago and at the East, and anthracite pig is unchanged. The demand for finished products has been very heavy.

The demand for car building has been very heavy both at the East and West, and the plate demand increased at the East on account of orders for shipyards. For plates the demand from tin plate works has been very active. The prospect of a combination of wire manufactures has stimulated the demand and raised the price for wire rods. Tin is quiet and steady at $13.85, with a visible supply February 1st of 31,120 tons, against 32,333 a year ago.

Exports of copper in January were about 10,225 tons, against 9,066 tons last year, and the price is held at 11c for lake.

There is a better demand for cotton goods since the general stoppage of works at the East, but there is no indication as yet of material gain as respects unsold stocks on hand.

In woolen goods the demand is altogether more satisfactory, an advance of about 20 per cent being paid on most grades of the finest woolen and worsted, and nearly all the mills are active. The sales of wool at the three chief markets were 6,301,400 pounds, of which 3,973,000 were domestic, against 13,563,700 last year, of which 8,493,400 were domestic.

AN INOPPORTUNE TIME.

The Immigration Bill May Not be Passed Just Now.

WASHINGTON, February 4.—The friends of the immigration bill are hopeful of securing its adoption early next week. At the same time feeling has arisen of late that it is inexpedient to press the question further during the present session of congress, owing to the political antagonism it would arouse.

The prevailing sentiment, however, is that the measure will be taken from the speaker's table as soon as the military academy appropriation bill is out of the way and that it will pass by a considerable majority after two or three days discussion.

Shot While Running Away.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., February 4.—Dr. W. W. Keller, who viewed the remains of the strikers and attended many of the wounded testified that a number of strikers were shot in the back, thus bearing out the allegation that the deputies fired when the men were running away.

ST. LOUIS, February 4.—Daniel McClelland, aged 48, employed in the paint works of S. Maphan & Kelin, committed suicide today by putting his head between the ponderous wheels of a machine known as a "putty crusher." The man's head was crushed to a pulp.

An Editor Acquitted.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., February 4.—The jury in the criminal libel case against Col. W. E. Haskell, manager of the Times, has brought in a verdict of not guilty. The article on which the indictment was based attacked the management of the Minneapolis Trust Company as receiver for the Guaranty Loan Company.

WASHINGTON, February 4.—The senate today confirmed the following nominations:

NO VERMIN.

The German Contention is Exploded.

No Possible Objection to the American Fruit on That Ground.

CHICAGO, February 4.—Chicago wholesale fruit dealers declare that the decree issued by the German authorities closing the gates against the fresh fruit of this country will be a source of considerable hardship to them. The apple dealers, it is said, will be the chief sufferers for the German trade in apples has considerable to do with regulating the home market.

Late last autumn representatives from a number of prominent supply houses in Bremen and Hamburg came to this country and urged the dealers to supply the German markets with the popular fruit. Some of them went so far as to offer a guaranty, claiming to see their way clear through the great demand in the fatherland for fine fruit, which has been scarce in Germany this year. A great many of our merchants saw a harvest in trading with the Germans and shipped the surplus of the fanciest apples that came to the local market.

The merchants say that the alleged cause of the issuance of the decree is ridiculous, for only the finest variety of apples was shipped. They deny that any California vermin infected the fruit.

Benjamin Newhall, one of the heaviest handlers of apples in the West, says: "If the German government closed its ports against apples from this country merely as a precautionary measure against vermin they did it in pretty much of a hurry. It is nil bosh to say that the California apples are infected with vermin. The Germans got the pick of the land. The American merchants had begun to regard the German field as a profitable one for them to operate in and they set around to supply the market. I think I am pretty near it when I say not less than 75,000 barrels of apples were shipped to the German markets last season."

BERLIN, February 4.—Under the heading, "Order, Counter-order, Disorder," the Tageblatt today describes the bungling of Prussia with American fruits, and asks: "Are we really drifting into a fiesta tariff war with the United States because we have petted the Agrarian desires?"

The Vorwaerts publishes an article headed "Agrarian Attack on America," detailing the stupidity which the different revenue stations display in interpreting the prohibitory decree. Other liberal newspapers make similar comment.

The issuance of the decree was brought about as follows:

The minister of agriculture, Baron Von Hammerstein-Loxten, saw Dr. Miquel, the minister of finance and vice-president of the ministry, January 30th, and asked that a decree be issued forthwith prohibiting absolutely the importation of all American fruit, fresh and dried, and all products of American nurseries. Dr. Miquel telegraphed the order to all revenue stations, making it effective on February 1. United States Ambassador White immediately vigorously remonstrated with the foreign office by note and verbally, and the decree was annulled temporarily February 2d.

During the annullment the fruit was released at Hamburg, Emmerich and Dusseldorf. The decree was re-established February 3d in milder form, being made enforceable against fresh fruit only.

MAY WHEAT.

Argentine Shipments Control the Situation.

The Leiter Brokers Bid Liberally and Prices Rise to 95c.

CHICAGO, February 4.—Opening trades in May wheat were at from ¼c to ½c over yesterday's closing figure, May ranging all the way from 94⅞c to 95⅛c, in different parts of the pit, and a good trade at those figures. The market was helped by the unexpected advance of ⅝d at Liverpool, where a decline was looked for.

It was supposed this strength was due to the falling off in Argentine exports from that country last week, being but 672,000 bushels or nearly 200,000 bushels under those of the week before. Traders here looked for figures close to the million mark and the shortage was a pleasing surprise to holders. Notwithstanding this Liverpool strength the market for a time after the opening appeared to be in the control of the bears.

The Kansas crop was very favorable and there was an early half drop at St. Louis. The effect of this was that inside of thirty minutes the Liverpool advance was disregarded and prices declined, May selling at 94⅛c, about 1c lower.

Further, which had a tendency to increase the weakness, were early figures on the visible supply indicating a rather small decrease next week.

Before noon the market began to recover. At bottom prices brokers for the Leiter interests commenced bidding and aided by a lot of late bullish news and marked strength in provisions and the coarser grains, started an upward movement which carried the May price to 95c.

Closing cables were firm and showed substantial advances. May closed firm at 95¼. Corn was moderately active and firm. May closed ⅛c higher. Oats were very strong and May sold at the top price of the crop, 24⅞c. The close was ⅛c to ½c higher. Provisions sold at the highest prices for the season. The market early was weak on the decline in hog prices and on commission house realizing. Shorts were free buyers. May pork and lard closed 7½c higher and May ribs 5c higher.

FEE'S HEARING.

His Preliminary Begun Yesterday.

Only Two Witnesses Examined Thus Far.

The Evidence Adduced Was in Favor of the Madera Lawyer.

The preliminary examination of Francis A. Fee, the Madera attorney who was arrested Thursday night on a charge of forgery, was begun yesterday before Judge Cole, the committing magistrate of that town. The examination was in progress all day, and when court adjourned until today only two witnesses had testified.

As explained in yesterday morning's REPUBLICAN, the charge of forgery grew out of a business transaction in which Fee acted as attorney for the Commercial bank, and the alleged offense consisted of the claimed changing of a legal document after it had been signed, which is forgery under the law. Fee drew up a bill of sale whereby Watkins & Prosser, the lumbermen, assigned all their property to the bank, in consideration of the institution's assuming the liabilities. The claim of Rosenthal & Kutner was the one over which the difficulty arose. It was in the first bill of sale, but the first page was removed and another substituted in which the item was omitted.

The question of the alleged forgery hinges entirely upon whether the bill of sale was changed before or after it was signed. Fee claims that the first paper was prepared for the inspection of E. H. Cox, cashier of the Commercial bank, and was not intended to be signed. He claims that owing to a mistake of his typewriter the claim of Rosenthal & Kutner was included in the bill of sale, when, as a matter of fact, he had instructions from Mr. Cox to omit it, as the bank and the firm had another agreement.

The two witnesses called today were Miss Finney, Fee's stenographer, and E. H. Cox of the bank. Although they were called for the prosecution their testimony went to support the defendant's contention.

Mr. Cox testified as to the agreement made between the bank and Watkins & Prosser, as explained in the foregoing. He also told of a prior agreement which the bank held with Rosenthal & Kutner. The lumber firm was indebted to the bank in the sum of $3600 and owed Rosenthal & Kutner about $2600, which now amounts to about $2800, counting the accrued interest.

In order to prevent attachments and to protect themselves, Mr. Cox stated, the bank and Rosenthal & Kutner put their claims together, and had an agreement to the effect that when the bank had paid off the other claims with the receipts from the sale of the assigned lumber and other property that then it would pro rata the claim of Rosenthal & Kutner with its own.

With that engagement in mind, Mr. Cox told Attorney Fee to omit the name of that firm from the bill of sale. He gave the attorney the claims of all the creditors, however, including that of Rosenthal & Kutner.

The witness stated that Fee returned with the bill of sale, which contained the claim of Rosenthal & Kutner. The witness called his attention to that, asking him why he put it in the document when he had express instructions to omit it. Fee, Mr. Cox testified, explained that it was a mistake of his typewriter's, and he would take the paper back to his office and have the first page rewritten.

The bill of sale consisted of but two pages, pinned together, without the usual back that is attached to legal documents, which fact, the attorney claims, shows that it was intended merely for submission to Mr. Cox for alterations if any should be found necessary, and not to be signed.

Miss Finney testified to having made the first copy, inadvertently putting in the claim of Rosenthal & Kutner. She further testified that Mr. Fee had brought it back and re-wrote the first page himself. Watkins & Prosser then entered his office and signed the bill of sale. She was positive that the first one had not been signed.

The examination will be resumed this morning and it is expected that it will consume the whole day.

The literary society and debating club has moved its place of meeting from the furnished lodge room in the Maxwell building to the unfurnished hall in the same building on account of the increasing attendance, as the latter room is less liable to be damaged by the crowd.

S. H. Loomis received his appointment as postmaster of this place a few days since. Mr. Loomis is a staunch Republican and a conscientious man in all business matters, so it is with general satisfaction that the public greets the new postmaster.

E. Poulson and family have moved from the Shilling ranch to their new home recently purchased on the west side of town.

J. A. Johnson, who has been very ill for some time past with rheumatism and a complication of diseases, is still very low and his friends are anxious as to his welfare.

The Fresno County Farmers' Institute met in Kingsburg on Thursday, February 3d. There was no session in the forenoon, but in the afternoon an interesting and highly beneficial meeting was held. Mr. Hutchinson of Fresno and Professors Fowler and Jaffy of the State University spoke on the various subjects interesting and profitable to farmers. A vote of thanks was tendered the board of regents of the university through the secretary, E. W. Davis, for supplying speakers of such learning for the institute. The farmers were much pleased and the merchants and other business men were also in evidence and enjoyed the meeting.

AN INTERNATIONAL SCRAP.

One Almost Pulled Off in This City Last Evening.

The train from San Francisco was a quarter of an hour late last evening, but those who were at the station did not mind the wait, as they were treated to a little free amusement in the open space across the track.

A Chinese boy from San Jose, whose identity could not be learned further than that he belonged to the See Yup Company, was at the station and a newsboy began to tease him. The Chinese boy was an overgrown celestial kid, and he clung to the spacious sleeve of a stout Chinaman who appeared to be his guardian. The newsboy chased him around the fat Chinaman until the latter got tired of it and shoved the young Mongolian away from him, telling him to fight his own battles. Two more Chinamen also urged the "yellow kid" to fight. But he broke into sobs, and great tears rolled down his brownish face. The newsboy continued to torment him with occasional light slaps and a mild kick thrown in now and then.

Soon the crowd of waiting passengers, hackmen and hotel runners gathered around and as all were anxious to see the little international scrap some urged on the "yellow kid," while others goaded on the newsboy. But the youthful celestial showed no fight.

"He scared as he—" said one of the Chinamen in utter disgust.

"Smash him, John; you can lick him," came from the crowd.

"Look out," warned the Oriental.

There was a limit even to celestial endurance, and at last the Chinese youth broke forth in all his fury. He sobbed louder than ever, and the tears gushed forth more copiously. But he rolled up his balloony sleeves, jumped off his feet, gave an unintelligible warwhoop and, clinching his fists, struck the air with lightning rapidity. Amid sobs he shouted defiance to the lad. The latter did not court danger. True, he stood his ground, but that was all. The crowd laughed and the Chinaman cheered. Just then a policeman happened along, and a very promising scrap was nipped in the bud.

Plugged the Bullseye.

From the Los Angeles Times.

The FRESNO REPUBLICAN hits the bullseye in saying: "The diseasemed calamity contemporaries have stuffed their ears so full of cotton strike that they have not been able to hear anything about the advance in wages to 200,000 coal miners. There are none so deaf as those who will not hear."

RAILROAD NOTES

The Valley Road Graded to Bakersfield.

Track Laying Delayed by Lack of Ties—Experimental Roadbed.

The Valley road graders have completed their work into Bakersfield. The roadbed is ready for the track layers, but some delay has resulted because of the lack of ties. Track laying has been completed to within sixteen miles of Bakersfield.

Ties to complete the road to the county seat of Kern were purchased some time since in Humboldt county, but boats could not be secured to carry freight from coast towns to Stockton owing to the fact that nearly every available vessel has been placed in the Alaskan trade. The ties will be shipped whenever opportunity offers and it is hoped that the road will be completed into Bakersfield in a short time.

A large force of men is engaged in loading cars with decomposed granite from Smith mountain in Tulare county. The dirt is placed around the stations along the Valley road and makes a hard, smooth surface underneath. From 100 to 150 carloads a day of this material is being utilized.

Plans for a depot at Fresno are under consideration. It is expected that a handsome structure will be erected at an early date. The depot will be located on the Valley road reservation between Tulare and Kern streets.

It has not yet been definitely ascertained whether the experimental piece of roadbed over the swamp west of Stockton is a success or a failure. As expected the dirt is sinking, according to the report of a local paper, and more earth will be piled on the bed until it reaches a firm foundation. It is a question whether the water from the swamp will cause the dirt on the roadbed to become soft and squash out sidewise into the mud.

If the experimental roadbed holds firm the cost of building across the swamp can be estimated. There will be a saving of several miles by crossing the swamp and if the roadbed is not a success a trestle will be built. The roadbed is favored, though the cost may be greater, as much faster time can be made on an embankment than on a trestle.

A TREAT IN MINSTRELSY.

Commencing next Thursday night, February 10th, we have the well known Mahara Minstrels, who come to the Barton for a two-night engagement. Manager Barton has arranged to present this attraction at popular prices, 10c, 20c, 30c and 50c. Mahara's Minstrels come here direct from the Los Angeles theater, Los Angeles, where the prices of admission are from 25c to $1, and the same show will be seen in Fresno for 10c, 20c, 30c and 50c. The Barton should be packed to the doors on both nights.

The Mahara brothers have been before the public as managers for years, and they promise to eclipse any of their efforts in the past, and if their program is any criterion to go by, they have kept their word, as some of the best artists on the minstrel stage are now traveling with them.

Their every endeavor has been to combine all the stronger portions of the old style of minstrelsy, with the latest novelties. The musical parts of the entertainment are handled by artists, whose voices are more fitted for the concert platform, while their comedians will see that there is no lack of fun. Among the names on the program will be found Billy Young and Charles Case, comedians; LeRoy Bland, an impersonator of the female character, who out-womans a woman, and Master Hilliard Brewer, a contortionist of unusual merit.

WHEREAS, UNDER AND BY VIRTUE OF A writ issued out of the Superior court, in and for the county of Fresno, state of California, on the 13th day of January, in the year 1898, in the above entitled action, wherein W. IT is time right now to quit the Arkansaw method of street sprinkling.

IT is all right to keep on trusting Providence in some things, but when it comes to the question of dust it is time to haul out the sprinklers.

IT would seem to be about time for some of our distinguished savants to discover microbes in imported beer. A savant who cannot rise to an emergency isn't worth his keep.

WILLIAM T. STEAD, who delves somewhat in the warm, alluvial soil where occultism flourishes, has been told by a spirit to abandon journalism. Mr. Stead has doubtless been given worse advice by spirits who have not yet escaped the thralldom of the flesh.

THE Kern County Gazette, Democratic from wayback, says that if the Populists and Democrats again fuse in that county it will support the Democrats and oppose the Populists. The Gazette seems to have got right on to the combination that the Democratic voters have worked to a finish in Fresno.

BARON VON HAMMERSTEIN-LOXTEN stood up on his hind legs in the Prussian diet yesterday and declared that the American horse develops influenza after getting into that country. The American horse would be likely to develop any old thing after getting into a country where that kind of diet is whacked up for man and beast.

THE editor of the Merced Express refuses to be a candidate for town trustee for the reason that he is a dangerous man for the place. He declares that if elected he would pave the streets of the old town with Democratic silver bricks. The Merced editor is indeed a dangerous man. He is even more of a radical than the distinguished student of Mexican finance, the gentleman from Nebraska.

SAN JOSE has organized a club whose purpose is to preserve old landmarks. Fresno county is so nearly up to date that a club of that sort would not have much material to work on, but it could probably succeed in inducing the Board of Supervisors to preserve the color of the court house dome. That is a land mark of the deepest dye, and it will get old if no vandal hand is permitted to monkey with it.

A WASHINGTON dispatch says that Boss Croker has declared war against W. J. Bryan and has decided to work for the candidacy of Carter Harrison of Chicago. What is more, the Kaiser of New York says that radical changes must be made in the platform adopted at the Windy City in 1896. This puts the Democratic party in the position of the donkey that stood between two stacks of hay, not knowing which to choose. It looks as if McEwen's recent statement that Croker aspired to control the national Democracy was well founded. The Boss is moving rather early in the matter, though.

JUSTICE HAGNER of the supreme court of the District of Columbia has made a ruling in which he holds that it is unconstitutional for Congress to appropriate money for sectarian institutions. It is to be hoped that the question will be taken to the United States supreme court and that the higher court will affirm Justice Hagner's decision. We believe the Washington jurist to be right in the stand that the government should not give aid to sectarian institutions. These should be supported by the vast sums of money that are contributed by the believers that comprise the different denominations. It is not among the government's functions to contribute money to any sectarian cause.

SAN FRANCISCO will soon have a penny paper and it is to be "truthful, clean and fearless." This is just the kind of newspaper the metropolis needs, but whether it is the kind it will support time alone can tell. The name of the new paper will be the Lance and its editorial department will be in charge of Cornelius F. Davis, a newspaper man of wide experience, long associated with the Youth's Companion. The prospectus before us promises that the Lance will give all the news of the day in a condensed form and that all objectionable matter will be excluded from its columns. The Lance will be published every morning and the first issue will appear on February 10th. The REPUBLICAN hopes that that the publishers will adhere to their program and wishes the new venture all success.

IT seems that the Bundesrath is about to modify the decree against American fruit promulgated by Dr. Johannes Miquel, the Prussian minister of finance. The measure proposed in the Bundesrath will prohibit the importation of American live plants and shrubs and packages containing the same. It also affects American fruit, but not to the extent that Dr. Miquel's decree does. The supplementary decree, which is evidently intended to supersede the earlier one, provides for the inspection of American fruit and the exclusion of such packages as are found to be infected with vermin. This is quite different from shutting out all American fruit, whether good or bad, and indicates that the representations of Ambassador White have had some effect. Still as the German government is disposed to make a microscopic examination of importations from the United States this government might bring that instrument to bear on the wines, hams, cheeses, meats, etc., sent to us by the Germans. The San Jose scale would be found to be a thing of beauty compared with the animalcula that revel in some of the products of the Fatherland.

PRESIDENT MCKINLEY'S statement that the millionaires at the National Manufacturers' banquet in New York looked rosy, happy and contented, was no balm of Gilead to the workingmen whose wages have been reduced.—Sacramento Bee.

Neither was it any champagne in the growler of those whose wages have been advanced, but most any kind of workingmen will agree that their chances are better when the manufacturers are fat and contented than when they are looking pale and dejected, as they did under the late "tariff reform" administration of G. Cleveland. The esteemed Bee knows quite well that the condition of the workingmen of this country has quite generally improved during the present administration, the cotton industry being the only one in which reverses have been met, and still it gives the editor a pain to know that employers of labor are feeling better and looking cheerful over the condition of their business. If the editor of the Bee expects to live up to his new ideas he should begin to curb his taste for the luxuries of life and cultivate an appetite for dried herring and Sacramento river water. A sallow, dyspeptic cast of countenance would also be becoming.

THE Minister of Justice in Canada has caused a circular letter to be issued to all judges in the Dominion condemning rapid transit to the gallows and requiring that a longer interval shall elapse between the dates of execution and sentence in order that the evidence may be properly reviewed. What a happy man that Minister of Justice would be if he were in California, where there is not only sufficient time between dates of sentence and execution to review the evidence, but also to review the life of the condemned and his ancestors, to revise the Bible, expurgate Shakespeare and the Democratic platform, and to print enough stuff about the case in the yellow journals to paper all the dead walls in christendom. That distinguished scion of John Bull will improve his chances for a long and felicitous existence by hauling in his horns, backing off the track and taking passage for this land of the free and home of the unhung.

A TULARE man has returned from an Eastern trip and says that he saw California raisins on sale in the Chicago market that were inferior to the kind he has been feeding to his hogs. They were damaged by rain and full of dirt. He also bought some frozen California oranges that were as dry inside as the reading matter in a country newspaper's loathsome contemporary. The swindlers who sell this stuff as merchantable California fruit ought, if possible, to be given enough free advertising to drive them out of the business. It is astonishing that California producers and packers can be so shortsighted as they are when they thus deliberately attack the reputation of the peerless fruit products of the state, and it is also a matter of surprise that retailers, who are directly responsible to consumers, can be found to sell the bogus stuff. It is a remarkably foolish as well as disreputable business in any way you may look at it.

The Commercial of Buffalo, New York, says:

When a fast mail train of seven cars pulled into the station at Rochester recently one car was laden with letters, which paid their passage many times over, and the six remaining cars were loaded with second-class mail matter that wiped out all the profit on car No. 1 and left a big deficit to be made good by cutting down the number of daily deliveries in the large cities. Pass the Loud bill.

The REPUBLICAN is in favor of the passage of the Loud bill when it is so amended as to reduce the amount paid the railroad companies for transporting the mails to honest figures. The abuses of the postal system should be cut off all along the line.

CAMILLA.

Strike your guitar, fair Camilla, and sing the wild song you are dreaming.
Let the little fingers fly swift o'er its strings, for your dark eyes are beaming—
Beaming with faraway fancies, Camilla, that plead for expression.
Only thy vibrant guitar is attuned for the sacred confession.

Now Camilla's fair fingers are plucking in rapture the pulsating strings,
And her faraway eyes are intent on the scene and the story she sings—
Singing her song of Felipe, her hero intrepid and true;
Singing his praise and recounting what deeds for her love he would do.

Hear the hello of the herder Felipe, who dashes ahead!
Hist, how the lariat sings as it flies o'er the horns of a steer!
See the wild plunge and the horse standing firm! Hear the bellow of fear!

Then, on the trail of Apaches, who leads the long marches by night?
Who but Felipe would dare to press on o'er the mesa to fight?
Who but Felipe sits firm in his saddle when rifles ring out in the dark?
Coolly he levels his weapon. The bullet flies true to its mark.

Such is the song sweet Camilla is singing with gaze far away;
Such is the song, for she knows not how long her Felipe will stay—
Knows not that lone in the waste of the sage brush her master lies slain.
Ah, sweet Camilla, thy songs for Felipe, the fearless, are vain!

FERRYBOATS IN THE WAR.

A Veteran's Recollections of One He Saw at Fortress Monroe In 1861.

"It is curious," said a veteran soldier, "how some incident or circumstance may impart to a long familiar object to which we have never given any special thought a significance that makes it always thereafter an object of particular interest. The East river ferryboats impress me in that way now whenever I see one, and this was brought about simply by seeing one of them out of its accustomed waters amid strange scenes and put to strange uses.

"This was in the fall of 1861, in Hampton Roads. The regiment that I served in was aboard a transport there, waiting with other troops afloat there to go farther south under convoy of a fleet of war vessels. There was a great number of vessels there of all kinds, steamers and sailing vessels and warships, and they made an impressive show, but certainly the most striking of any one of them on its first appearance was an East river ferryboat, the Commodore Perry. I can see her at this minute as she looked then, moving across the waters of the Roads; she looked so utterly strange and curious there and amid such surroundings. But she went here and there with the most perfect confidence, constantly employed in transporting stores and troops and making herself quite as much at home there as she ever had been among the currents and eddies of the narrow East river.

"Other ferryboats were taken down there. A soldier friend of mine tells me that later, in the peninsular campaign, there was a New York ferryboat in those waters that was used as a gunboat, carrying two parrott guns, one at each end, mounted in the gangways, where the teams drive in and out. My own impression is that one or two of these boats went around Hatteras, into waters farther south; but, however that may be, I shall never forget the first time I saw the Commodore Perry at Fortress Monroe, and to this day I never go along South street without a feeling of the keenest personal interest for every ferryboat I see on the river."—New York Sun.

Stanley's Cat.

As the bonds of friendship are strengthened by a heavy affliction so does a prolonged sojourn in foreign places, amid strange scenes, turn the most common of everyday sights at home into luxuries. A magazine tells a story of Henry M. Stanley, who, after his return from Africa, was busily engaged in writing his story of the "Dark Continent."

He used to spread his reference maps upon the floor of his room, and on one particular day, after searching in his near neighborhood for a chart which he much needed, he spoke to his assistant, who presently descried it near the fireside, with Stanley's favorite cat upon it asleep.

He started to turn the intruder off, when the great man interrupted him, saying:

"Never mind; don't disturb the cat. I'll get along without the chart until the cat wakes up. If you only knew how good the sight of that domestic cat curled up in front of that bright English fire is to me, you would never chase her away."

The cat slumbered on, and not until she arose with a lazy yawn, scratching her front nails on the rug as she stretched, did the famous explorer reach for his map.

Asthma From Asparagus.

Among the curiosities of medical literature are the stories, many of them well authenticated, of the peculiar susceptibility of certain unfortunate individuals to certain odors and emanations. Among the substances which have been known to have produced attacks of spasmodic asthma are roses, musk, tea, ipecacuanha, the odor of a cat, fried fish, the dust of oats, malt, rice, feathers, wool and that caused in the demolition of old houses. Dr. Eugene Deschamps has added asparagus to this long list. He has published a full clinical report of a victualer over 40 years of age who suffers from severe spasmodic attacks of coughing whenever he attempts to prepare raw asparagus for the cook.—New York Herald.

Drew the Line.

"Couldn't take him at any price," said the agent who was buying horses for the use of the mounted police. "It is all right for a policeman to interfere whenever he sees fit, but it won't do for his horse."—Indianapolis Journal.

Duty.

To do the duty nearest, simple and natural as it may seem, is really the most difficult thing in life. To see it even is difficult. I do not know what it is in man that always makes him enamored of the distant thing. It is always tomorrow and tomorrow. Today we will dream and plan and postpone; tomorrow we will act, and so life gets to be a snarl of neglected yesterdays, a deceiving show of promised tomorrows, nothing really accomplished.—J. F. W. Ware.

ART EXHIBITION.

Successful Social Affair by the Presbyterian Young People.

The Young People's Christian Endeavor Society of the Presbyterian church, corner of K and Merced streets, gave an "art exhibition" social last evening.

The church was tastefully decorated with evergreen and around the walls were hung fifty half-tone engravings of pictures made by famous artists. These pictures were sold to the highest bidder, and ranged in price from 25 cents to $1.

There was a large number of persons present to enjoy the occasion and an interesting musical and literary program was rendered as follows: Piano duet, Mrs. Hollingsworth and Miss Elsie Smith; recitation, Miss Helen Long; vocal solo, Miss Mary Griffith; piano solo, Miss Mary Baird; select reading, E. D. Seward; vocal solo, Mrs. W. F. Forsey; piano solo, Miss Elsie Smith.

The proceeds from the social will be presented to the foreign and home mission societies of the Presbyterian church. Each year the Endeavor Society pledges $50 to mission work and this amount is divided equally between the home and foreign missionary societies.

Between $40 and $50 was realized last evening. While the pictures were being inspected P. Boyson and W. R. Whitney furnished music on the piano and flute.

In the gallery some of the clever young ladies of the society conducted a take-off on the art exhibit below. Ten cents admission was charged and the visitor was amused by a table full of articles representing famous paintings.

SPILT HER LUNCH.

Sorry Accident to a Stylish Young Woman in a Train.

The passengers on an early morning train connecting with this city were treated to a thoroughly enjoyable scene the other morning. At one of the small stations a young lady boarded the train.

She was dressed rather stylishly, but a veil covered a rather plain face. She switched down the aisle like a queen. She barely deigned to glance at the other passengers in the car, and when she did her nose rose perceptibly at the tip in a manner that spread the impression of contempt.

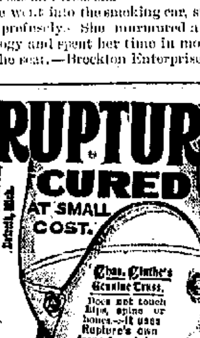

She carried a Boston bag and the air of a millionaire. There was but one seat vacant. This was beside a good looking, nicely dressed young man who was reading a paper.

When she came to this seat, she flopped down heavily and tossed her bag to the seat between herself and the young man. Two seconds later the young man leaped from his seat, and a string of earnest words of doubtful origin fell from his lips like vipers from the lips of the young woman in the fable.

The startled passengers looked to see what had caused this outburst. They saw, and then they laughed. The nice looking Boston bag contained an ordinary, everyday working girl's lunch.

One of its features was a jar of coffee, which had broken in the descent and flowed freely over the young man's new fall coat and trousers.

He went into the smoking car, swearing profusely. She murmured a weak apology and spent her time in mopping up the seat.—Brockton Enterprise.

MR. STAHL AND HIS MONEY.

Hard Work to Make a Connection Between Them.

The people who have interested themselves in the welfare of Frederick Stahl, the erratic hostler who has considerable money coming to him, are having a hard time to get him and the money together.

After asking Charles Glass to write for back pension for him, he apparently got off the earth for six months. He worked as a hostler in this city under an assumed name, and the officers wrote for him all over the state. When he was at length found he was not in a condition to go to San Jose, where the money has been waiting for him, as he had been drinking heavily.

Yesterday he had made all arrangements to go, but his latest escapade was to get robbed in the Circle Bar saloon the other night and yesterday he was subpœnaed as a witness in the case, which will require his presence here today.

Stolen Goods Recovered.

Deputy Constables Con Angel and Will Henry have recovered the easy chair and Japanese stand stolen from the rear of Parker Lyon & Co.'s furniture store last Tuesday. The articles were found in a house near the Kroeger school, where a man named D. McNally had left them. McNally claimed that he had bought the furniture at an auction. He has been living with the family who occupy the house. McNally has disappeared from his usual haunts and is in hiding.

A Bicycle Smashed.

About 8 o'clock last evening while out driving Mrs. George Myers' buggy was run into by a messenger boy on a bicycle, who was playing tag with several other cyclists. The collision occurred near the corner of Tulare and J streets, and the only damage that resulted was done to the bicycle, the front wheel of which was badly smashed up by the horse's hoof. The boy was named Solari, and he formerly was a messenger for the Western Union Telegraph Company. His hand was cut and his face was scratched.

Miss Hatch will read a paper on drainage, and the reports of the committees appointed to prepare a schedule of salaries for county officials and to consider the matter of mutual insurance among the farmers will be received.

Wearing Apparel Found.

Last evening T. A. McEachen found a bundle near the Forsythe packing house. In it were three pairs of drawers, a lady's white waist, a black skirt, stockings and several collars. There was also a book, ledger size, that had been partially destroyed. A card was found in the book with the name of Edward E. McDonald on it. The police were notified. It is believed that some woman's trunk was broken into and that the thief threw the articles away, keeping only such things as were of value.

Broke All Records.

In looking over the teachers' reports yesterday City School Superintendent Dailey noticed that during last month there was not a single case of tardiness in the seventh and eighth grades of the grammar school, which contain 344 pupils. The percentage of attendance was also high, showing that the excellent record for punctuality was not made at the expense of the attendance by a pupil who happened to be late going home for the day. Last month's showing beats all previous records.

Ask For County Aid.

Three applications for county aid were filed yesterday with Clerk J. B. Johnson of the Board of Supervisors, to be considered at the meeting of the board next week. They were from Felipe Varra, aged 97 years, of Firebaugh; Mrs. M. A. Mhoon, aged 30, of No. 631 South K street and Charles Black welder, aged 60 of this city. Mrs. Mhoon has three children.

High School Senate.

The high school senate held its regular meeting last evening. Rollcall was answered by quotations from Milton. The question, "Resolved, That military training be compulsory in all secondary schools in the United States," was debated. The resolution was adopted by a vote of 19 to 5. At the next meeting the senate will consider the question of abolishing the pension system.

SECURED "PRINCE"

O. D. Garrison Recovered His Klondyke Dog.

Barber Faul Lost the Suit Yesterday in Justice St. John's Court.

Yesterday afternoon Justice St. John's court was the scene of a bitterly contested suit for the possession of a dog, the ownership of which was claimed by both O. D. Garrison and William Faul.

Garrison is the captain of a party of prospective Klondykers who own several dog teams, and Faul is a Mariposa street barber. Faul had a dog once on a time, and six or eight months ago it failed to answer roll call. A few days ago he visited the Garrison doggery while the owner was away, and seeing a canine that resembled his bow wow, he took possession of it. Yesterday's suit was the result.

Justice St. John's court was filled with persons interested in the case. "Prince," the fine St. Bernard-Newfoundland dog whose ownership was being contended for, seemed as interested in the trial as any person in the room. He is a very friendly dog, and offered his paw to those who took notice of him. "Prince" recognized both the plaintiff and defendant, and tugged at his chain to break loose whenever either moved about the room.

Faul claimed that he had owned the dog for nearly three years. He produced pictures of a dog greatly resembling "Prince," but there were some slight differences in the markings. Justice St. John had a powerful magnifying glass through which he scrutinized the pictures.

Expert testimony was introduced to show that the dog was not over eighteen months old. Dr. J. Graham and Dr. H. A. Turner, veterinary surgeons, explained the difference between an eighteen months old dog and one over three years old. They were of the opinion that "Prince" was about the former age.

Miss Florence, who raised "Prince" from the time he was a pup until about six weeks ago, testified in regard to selling him to Garrison. She recognized the dog as soon as she entered the court room and the canine was equally as quick to know her.

Justice St. John gave judgment in favor of Garrison and assessed the costs, amounting to $20, to Faul.

A SMOOTH ARTICLE

Was Joseph Shaffer, the Entrapped Lottery Man.

Joseph Shaffer, the seller of Little Louisiana lottery tickets who was so nicely caught by City Attorney Smith last Thursday afternoon, was a pretty smooth article, but he will soak fresh dabs and pastures new when he gets out of jail. The fellow made a specialty of working upon the gambling proclivities of women, who like to tempt fortune by means of a lottery ticket as well as the sex which plays the nickel machines.

Shaffer went from house to house, and when a lady answered the door bell he made himself obnoxious by his persistence in endeavoring to force her to take a ticket. When, however, a man answered the bell whom the vender "sized-up" to be opposed to lotteries or who he feared might cause his arrest, he represented himself to be a canvasser for the San Francisco Call. He supposed that Mr. Smith was not religious and thereby made the mistake of his life.

Shaffer has been sentenced by Justice St. John to twenty days' imprisonment. He made a hard plea for a lighter sentence, saying he was a jeweler out of a job, but his excuses were unavailing.

J. M. Bridges, the junk dealer who is in jail awaiting trial, and Shaffer occupy the same cell. A singular thing about it is that Mr. Smith has been retained to defend Bridges. The two men think its very funny.

The Park Survey Completed.

City Surveyor Manuel yesterday completed the survey of the Reading tract of land which has been offered to the city as a site for a park, and he has prepared a map of the property, which consists of 101.70 acres. The Weihe tract lies south of that and contains 40 acres. The map was given to Attorneys Snow & Freman yesterday and they expect to have the deeds ready for submission to the City Trustees next Monday night.

Another Protest Filed.

More opposition to the formation of the proposed Bowles school district has developed. The residents of Washington colony, from which it was intended to take territory for the new district, are also up in arms against the loss of any of their district, and yesterday a protest was filed with County Superintendent Kirk. It contained fifty-six names.

To Quiet Title.

The Fresno Flume and Irrigation Company yesterday brought suit against L. H. Church, as administrator of the estate of Edward Lloyd, deceased, to quiet title to the Confidence quartz mine and a five-stamp mill situated on Big Dry creek.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

WOMAN DOCTOR WINS RIGHT TO PRACTICE IN VIENNA.

Marilla M. Ricker's Ambition—Interesting Legal Decision—Bustles Are Now Artistic—The Artistic High Light—Two Energetic Girls.

Fraulein Doctorin Gabriele Possauer von Ehrenthal, the first woman doctor of Austria-Hungary, is in a fair way to getting a good practice among women and children at Vienna, for although quite a recent beginner she is much sought after.

It is to Baroness Possauer that women who are Austrian subjects owe the privilege of studying medicine and taking their degrees at this university. Dr. Possauer studied for her matriculation privately and passed that examination at the academical gymnasium in Vienna. She then went to Zurich, where at the end of four years she took her diploma as doctor.

Back in Vienna she petitioned the ministry of public instruction to be allowed to take her degree and to practice and received a verbal reply that she might do so among women and children with certain restrictions and without an Austrian degree.

This concession she refused to accept, and six months afterward she had a written answer to say that as such a thing had never been asked for before her request could not be granted.

She then appealed to parliament, who referred her appeal to the ministry with a request to reconsider the question, which was refused.

Nothing daunted, Fraulein von Ehrenthal appealed personally to the emperor. His majesty received her with kindness and listened attentively to all she had to say, promising to look into the matter. This she did, telling the ministry that if there was no valid reason why she should not be allowed to undergo her examinations for the degree of doctor of the Vienna university it must give way.

Of course there was no real reason, so it had to give way, and the young lady passed her examination with honors in four subjects.

It is true there are certain restrictions, but it is expected that these are only transitory.—Paris Herald.

Marilla M. Ricker's Ambition.

Mrs. Marilla M. Ricker, a well known lawyer of Dover, N. H., has announced her determination to run for congress as successor to Congressman Cyrus A. Sulloway of Manchester. Mrs. Ricker is in deadly earnest, in spite of the fact that some of her male friends have tried to persuade her that the matter can be regarded as little more than a joke. She declares that she has a constitutional right to become a congressman, or rather a congresswoman, and looks forward confidently to the time when women will have an equal half of the seats in the senate and house of representatives.

Mrs. Ricker is a Republican in politics and a firm believer in the ultimate triumph of the cause of woman suffrage, according to the New York Herald. When asked to give her views on the subject of women as members of congress, and particularly regarding her own chances, for the especial benefit of The Herald readers, Mrs. Ricker replied as follows:

"For 20 years I have been nursing the secret hope that some day I shall be elected to congress or to the senate or become governor of a state. There is no constitutional or statute law to prevent. I notice that Emma Hart was appointed acting consular agent at Edmunston, N. B., by the state department for two weeks during the absence of the regular incumbent of the office. If a woman may be appointed temporarily in the diplomatic service she certainly can be appointed permanently. This temporary appointment was made since I asked to be appointed envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to the United States of Colombia, showing that all our officials want is to have the subject brought up and talked over and written up.

"I was the first woman in the country who tried to vote. It will be 28 years next March since I first attempted to cast a ballot. Now women have full suffrage in four states—Wyoming, Colorado, Utah and Idaho—municipal suffrage in Kansas and school suffrage in 26 states, including New Hampshire.

"Why shouldn't women be senators, members of congress and governors? It is a question of brain, and fortunately there is no sex in brain, and it is time to do away with the silly notion that there is. Every student of English law knows that statutes imposing penalties are to be strictly construed so as to exclude everybody and everything not within their letter. Statutes creating privileges, conferring benefits, are to be liberally construed so as to include every person within the reach of their spirit. I think we have reached a period when women are to have the benefit of both these rules to correlate each other.

"I don't want the impression to gain ground that I am doing this for a joke. I never was more serious in my life. I want to take a hand in educating women to see that they are as much entitled to public office as men. Why should not women go to congress? There is no valid reason why they should not, and I feel that times now favor my making a direct effort to that end. Mark this, that the time is not a great way off when it will not be possible for men to prevent women going as representatives of the people.

"To show that when I take up a fight I do not lower my colors in a hurry, I have only to point to the fact that for more than a quarter of a century I have appeared at the polls and offered my ballot, only to be refused the suffrage, but one day I tendered a ballot for a school committee and it was accepted."

Interesting Legal Decision.

A decision which will be of interest to women all over the country was rendered by a Cincinnati judge a few days ago. It is that a woman has the right to continue in business under her maiden name after she is married if she so chooses. The case that came up for a decision was that of Miss H. R. Graser, who for several years had been engaged in a customs brokerage business. She was the only woman in the United States carrying on a business of this kind, and, being possessed of rare business tact, she managed to build up a lucrative enterprise. A few months ago she married L. Luebbert, a young attorney of Cincinnati, and the happy couple made an extensive European tour. While she was away, however, she did not give up her business, but placed it in the hands of her sister, who attended to the work during her absence. Upon Mrs. Luebbert's return she again took charge of the business, conducting it under her maiden name.

Surveyor of Customs Henry D. Lemon came to the conclusion that it was not legal for her to transact business under her maiden name. Mr. Lemon held that in ordinary business matters it would perhaps be all right, but that when it came to doing business for others her real name ought to be signed to official papers instead of a fictitious one, or rather one that she does not now possess. Besides it was held that this was especially so in her kind of business, because she is given the power of attorney by her customers. She, however, was of an opposite opinion, and the matter was referred to the United States district attorney. Assistant District Attorney C. T. Greve looked up the law on the matter and then gave his opinion that Mrs. Luebbert was right and that she could continue to do business under her maiden name, as it was in the nature of a firm name, and that persons have a right to be known in business by any name that they may choose as long as they are identified with it. Mr. Greve held also that she could receive the power of attorney under her former name, and in consequence she continues to do business on the old plan. Mr. Greve stated that he had no hesitancy in rendering the above decision, as the law, at least as far as he could find, was plain enough, and that there was nothing to prevent anybody from assuming a name for business purposes.

Then the opinion of a United States judge was secured. He said that a married woman's legal name is that which her husband bears and that as long as they are man and wife she can have no other surname, excepting for business purposes, when she can assume her maiden name or any other name, provided, of course, that there is no intent to defraud.

Bustles Are Now Artistic.

It has come again—the bustle. Bustles are something like professional singers who are not so young as they were once. Dressmakers have announced at intervals for the last 40 years the last appearance of the bustle, but after a short or a long absence of time it has always bumped itself up again. This time it comes in exceedingly modified form. In fact, it has advanced in civilization along with women's corsets, boots, gloves and other accessories.

The designs are anything but objectionable to wearer or observer. None of the monstrosities in vogue a few years ago is to be found. Then women wore bustles made of wire netting, plain wire or heavy haircloth or homemade affairs stuffed with excelsior or sponges. A rat trap or a small section of barbed wire fence bent into proper shape would have been about as comfortable. And those old fashioned bustles were not only uncomfortable when on, but were also often a source of annoyance when off. Big as they were, they were always getting lost. What woman lives who has not lost her bustle when dressing in a hurry? This can't happen with the bustle of today, for it is generally made as part of the gown or attached to it in some way. Nine women out of ten are a little bit hollow in the back and need a small bustle to keep the skirt from sagging and give her it a stylish effect.

"Bustles are selling like hot cakes," said a maker of corsets. "All the newest gowns have a small bustle made in them, and, where a woman's figure warrants it, also hip pads. But lovely woman, no matter how large her allowance, has a few of last year's gowns that she feels she must wear this season, so, with these, ready made bustles are being worn. The bustle in its present form hasn't a single objectionable feature and is being used in the most sensible way to meet the peculiar need of the individual. There was a time when there was absolutely no individuality in bustles. Fat and lean women, women with conspicuous hips and those with a conspicuous absence of hips, bought and wore the bustle which looked as if it would last the longest and would give them the most camellike proportions. Now a woman studies her curves and lines and buys a bustle to set them off to the best advantage. Some of the new bustles are long, some short, some fuller than others, and many round up the hips with small pads. All are made of fine quality material, light in weight, and are small, neat and graceful.—New York Sun.

The Artistic High Light.

The "high light," so much admired by artists, is shortly to glorify even the drawing room, as witness the universal use of the sash curtain. When the shade is drawn to the top of the window and the lower part is draped, as is done these days, we have this light to perfection. Now that we are growing to appreciate this and to revel in it, we are told that some day women will be willing to give up window drapery as surely as they have banished hangings from the beds. That day has not dawned yet, but there are hints of its approach in the fact that plush, rep and all heavy hangings, when not eaten by moths, have been put to other uses. The shops are full of dainty drapery that is not even scorned for studio windows. For gold and white drawing rooms the inexpensive pole of wood, decorated in white and gold, still holds its own. Japanese stores show a silky material in yellow and white or in rich but delicate oriental coloring that varies in price to suit all purses. It is cut in lengths to suit the windows and are draped as fancy dictates. High drapery is in favor just now, adapted, however, to fall lower if desired.

Some of the finest weaves of silk or silk and wool tapestry mentioned above will suit some windows admirably. For very cold weather, when wintry blasts are to be shut out, heavy tapestry, velours and fancy materials are shown. The weaves must be close to keep out drafts. They should always be arranged to drape back readily in the daytime and need not in any way interfere with the high drapery, which should always be chosen for its color effect and must be in unison with the tone of the room. Ruskin's pointed windows are said to be coming in, and they admit of very little drapery, but the women who love draperies and the cozy effect they give can always arrange on any window enough hangings to do away with all appearance of bareness.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Two Energetic Girls.

The following experiment has been tried with success by two Philadelphia girls, students at a college of elocution, this fall: They were sisters, and they went to "live out" as housemaid and cook with two other sisters, maiden ladies. This is the way it worked: The college duties took from 8:30 to 12 m. Rising at 6 o'clock, one sister made the fire and prepared the simple breakfast of oatmeal, eggs and coffee, sometimes adding fresh hot bread. Meanwhile the other young woman brushed and dusted the dining room and drawing room before the breakfast hour, which was usually at 7:30.

The meal completed, the maids occupied only a few minutes in piling the dishes neatly together, covering them with a cloth and putting the food away. A few minutes more sufficed for a quick change from tidy print working gowns into street costume, and 9:30 o'clock found them at the college, ready for recitations.

Neither sister had any recitation between 12 and 2, so that it was not difficult for them to hurry home, where one prepared luncheon while the other washed the breakfast dishes.

At 4 o'clock the last school duties were over, and Emma and Ada once more assumed their Cinderella roles, washing luncheon dishes and preparing dinner. The lady proprietors dined at 6:30, Emma and Ada joining them, except when there were guests, on which occasions Ada, the younger, donned a fresh white apron and pretty cap, making a most picturesque waiting maid, while Emma remained in the kitchen to prepare the simple but sufficient courses.

After dinner, when the table was cleared and dining room and kitchen were restored to immaculate neatness, the country maids took their books to the dining room and studied until bedtime.—Philadelphia Press.

Latest Styles In Sleeves.

It is said with great confidence that sleeves will not reach perfect tightness during the winter. In almost every instance there will be some kind of trimming at the top of the sleeves in the shape of caps, frills or puffs. Many of the new gowns have sleeves trimmed just at the elbow, and others are neatly trimmed at the wrist with twists of ribbon, bands of braid or velvet, and some of the lighter weight materials show sleeves rounded at the wrist, revealing the arm at the inside, and they are finished with a puffing of the same material or chiffon, lace or soft silk.—Woman's Home Companion.

Thirty-two of the towns and cities of Colorado have women's clubs, and the aggregate membership of 4,039. Denver has 24 of the clubs. Last year it had but 15. It is thought that nearly every village and hamlet in the state will have a club by another year.

Mary B. Smith has been elected to the school committee in Beverly, Mass., by a majority in every ward. The opposing candidate was the strongest that the city could furnish and fully expected to be elected. Miss Smith had 1,070 votes and Mr. Edgett 714.

No woman can promote the cause of equal suffrage so much as by exercising every year such suffrage as the law already concedes to her. Be faithful over a few things and you will be made ruler over many.—Woman's Journal.

The Civitas club of Brooklyn has offered two prizes of $25 each to its members for the best story and best serious essay on either a historical or sociological subject. The essays must be in by March 1.

His Wife Won.

A Georgia man, who was unpopular in his community, insured his life for $2,000. He took the policy home to his wife and said:

"Maria, here's a life insurance document for $2,000."

"Thank you, dear," said his wife. "How are you feeling today?"

"Not well," he replied, "and I don't think I am long for this world, and I want to say to you that when I die it is my wish that you devote $1,000 of the money to defraying my funeral expenses."

"Mercy on me," exclaimed the wife, "why do you want such an expensive funeral?"

"I'll explain. I'm perfectly satisfied that nobody will attend my funeral, and I want to hire people to go at so much a head. I'm going out today and see what arrangements I can make for attendants on that forthcoming melancholy occasion. If they won't come gratis, why—I'll just hire 'em an give 'em an order on you for the money."

He went forth and at nightfall returned with a dejected look.

"Maria," he said, "it's no use. You can have the whole $2,000. Just go to my funeral yourself."—Atlanta Constitution.

A Life Saved.

A FOND DAUGHTER WAS NIGH TO DEATH.

Frank B. Trout Tells a Reporter of How His Daughter's Life Was Saved. All Parents Should be Interested in This Narrative.

From the Evening News, Detroit, Mich.

Using as a nucleus for his investigation the rumor that the life of the daughter of Frank B. Trout, well known in Detroit, Mich., real estate circles, had been saved, a reporter called on Mr. Trout at his office, 103 Griswold Avenue. Mr. Trout showed some hesitancy in giving his opinion for publication, but finally said: "Circumstances and a father's love for his child forced me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, but not until the whole medical profession had exhausted their skill. At the age of fourteen we had to take our daughter from school owing to her health. Before this she had been in the best of health, happy and in the best of spirits. She began to fall away and became pale and languid. She was so weak that she would fall down in a faint every time she tried to walk unsupported. The best of physicians attended her, but she continued to grow weaker and seemed to be gradually fading away.

"When she was fifteen she weighed only ninety pounds, and the doctors said it was anaemia. Several physicians said she might outgrow it, but that it would no doubt terminate in consumption. No doctor we had could help her, and we concluded ourselves, we must lose our child, as she was growing weaker every day.

"We had tried all the well-known remedies, and finally about a year ago I bought a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and took them home. That day I had read of a case about the same as my daughter's, and decided to give them a trial, though I must confess I did not have much faith. Before she had taken all of the first box we noticed a change for the better. She, however, gained strength daily and looked brighter. Every one noticed the change, and I bought two more boxes for her.

"When she had taken two boxes she was strong enough to leave her bed, and in less than six months was something like herself. To-day she is entirely cured, and is a big, strong, healthy girl, weighing 130 pounds, and has never had a sick day since.

"I do not think she uses them now, though I always keep them in the house. My wife and I have recommended them to our neighbors, and sent a few to another young girl who seems to be in the same condition as my daughter. Had not Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved my daughter's life, I would not recommend them to any one. I know they do all and more than is claimed for them, and I am glad to recommend them to the world. I know Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People saved my daughter's life, and that is enough for me."

F. B. TROUT.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this fourth day of March, 1897.

ROBERT E. HULL, JR., Notary Public, Wayne County, Michigan.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities and all forms of weakness. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of whatever nature. CURTAIN HANGING.

Some Suggestions on a Branch of Decoration That Has Become an Art.

If you want to give the touch of brightness to your room that white curtaining alone gives, and yet do not want to exclude any light, buy fish net. Have a double brass rod fitted inside the window casing at the top. Let each piece of curtaining extend all the way across these rods and be caught pertly back about half way between the middle of the sash and the sill.

Trim your fish net draperies with nothing but a ball fringe. That is quite enough to give finish without being either expensive or overelaborate.

Dotted muslin cannot be drawn across the window in the double style which is suitable to fish net because its firmer body makes it too thick for doubling. It is most daintily finished by a plain hem and drawn back by a broad band of muslin buttonholed so as to fasten over a hook.

Still another dainty and inexpensive style of curtaining is plain, fine wash net. That should be finished by a soft frill down the sides, and the top should be allowed to fall over in a valance about a foot deep. This is pretty when edged with a ruffle like those down the sides.

The Modern Grandmother.

Times have changed since the days when the traditional grandmother sat in the chimney corner knitting socks and mittens. Women who have married early in life have no more inclination at 40 years of age for subsiding into armchairs and giving up all interests in life except such as center in their grandchildren than have the young mothers themselves.

There are artists, musicians and writers among the grandmothers of today, women who are doing their part of the world's work and women who have chosen careers for themselves while they were taking care of their own children, and who keep steadily on with as much love in their hearts for the little toddlers who have just come on the stage as if their lives were given over entirely to pickling, darning and knitting.

Fifty years ago all the grandmothers, except in a few rare instances, were fashioned after much the same type, whose outward expression was a handkerchief folded smoothly about the neck, a cap with a wide border and a pair of spectacles.

Today they keep their own individuality, dress as fashionably as their purse will permit, travel in their own country and abroad, entertain, are delightful companions and friends—in a word, something besides a "grandma."—New York Ledger.

The St. Louis Incident.

The mayor of St. Louis refused the request of the Woman Suffrage club of the city that a woman be appointed street inspector, saying that woman's place was at home. Certainly the condition of the streets in many cities would tend to support the mayor's idea. But as unfortunately women have to come in contact with all this pollution in the ordinary course of their business and pleasure why should they not come in contact with it with authority to banish it? It would be hard work to convince women accustomed to taking hold of things that need clearing up that it is more womanly to endure that which is a nuisance and a menace to health than it is to remedy it. How differently mayors talk in states where women are voters!—Woman's Tribune.

Sealskin.

It is a curious fact that the price of sealskin has taken a most decided drop. This is accounted for by the fact that imitations are so good that the average purchaser cannot be certain of what she is getting. Sheared and plucked furs are so exquisitely finished that even an expert may be deceived at a distance. Of course no one who is familiar with furs could make any mistake upon examination, but the average customer has never had either the opportunity or occasion to know the difference, and it would not be worth her while to take the trouble to learn. Therefore it is that sealskin has become one of the less expensive of the excellent furs in market.—Exchange.

Those Chicago Discharges.

The recent action of the mayor of Chicago in discharging eight women stenographers from positions in the city hall and filling the places with men is what any woman occupying public office may expect so long as some ward heeler is unfurnished with a job and so long as she herself holds no power by the way of suffrage—this, too, notwithstanding the fact that she is much more competent than the man who succeeds her and, besides, by long years of experience has come to be almost invaluable to the department.—Woman's Forum.

Mr. Ward L. Smith, of Fredericktown, Mo., was troubled with chronic diarrhoea for over thirty years. He had become fully satisfied that it was only a question of a short time until he would have to give up. He had been treated by some of the best physicians in Europe and America but got no permanent relief. One day he picked up a newspaper and chanced to read an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. He got a bottle of it, the first dose helped him and its continued use cured him. For sale by Smith Bros., corner Hughes hotel.

—THE EMINENT—

Oculist and Aurist

From Berlin, Germany, will make his next visit to

FRESNO, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 9th, HUGHES BLOCK,

And return once a month. Do you want that Catarrh cured? Do you want that Deafness cured? Do you want to see with those weak, watery dim eyes? If so, go and consult Dr. Ehrlich this trip. It costs you nothing to get his opinion this trip. 300 patients have been treated by him lately and all are pleased. His wonderful cures are bringing the deaf and blind from all sections for relief, and they go home and tell others and the crowd increases each month. A hundred cases of Deafness and Noises have tried his new cure for that disease and they say it is the grandest discovery to suffering humanity. Can give private reference to as many as you wish to go and see who have suffered and are cured. Thirty-five people suffering with weak eyes have thrown away their glasses and are able to see again. Write to your friends and go early, as rooms are crowded all day. Consultation free.

Beware of Imitations.—My success and ability in curing hundreds has stirred up a band of imitators, who are canvassing from house to house to procure patients. Remember, I have no connection with any institute. I do not employ cheap graduates. All of my patients receive my personal attention.

Catarrh—I can cure every case. Treatment gives immediate relief. Remember, if you have any disease of the REAL WALL STREET.

IT CONSISTS OF SECURITIES IN A LOT OF LEATHER BOXES.

These Are Carried to Market Every Morning—How They Are Guarded by Night and by Day—What Would Happen if They Were All Lost or Stolen.

According to the map of the city of New York, Wall street is a thoroughfare leading from Broadway to East river. In business parlance it is a district extending a quarter of a mile on either side of that thoroughfare, with spurs and branches on lower Broadway.

But neither of these definitions is correct. The real Wall street is contained in a lot of leather boxes about three feet long by a foot and a half deep. From 9:30 to 10 o'clock every weekday morning the real Wall street comes out from subterranean vaults and sprends itself over the district. About 4 o'clock in the afternoon it goes back again to its lair, to repose for the night in the dungeons of steel and solid masonry that defy both fire and burglars, guarded by watchmen who all night long patrol the dimly lighted corridors of the stronghold.

This real Wall street consists of securities to the value of about $500,000,000. The buying and selling of these securities is the business of the brokers, and a man engaged in such buying and selling is "in the street." These $500,000,000 worth of securities are sent to market every morning by their owners to be sold for the highest price they will bring, just as a farmer sends a pig to market, and the broker corresponds to the hired man who takes the pig to market and is paid for doing so.

Wall street is often spoken of as a place where people buy and sell what they do not possess. That, however, is a delusion. Wall street is securities, and the business of "the street" the buying and selling of them. There are, to be sure, "bucket shops," where things are carried on in some such fashion, but these bucket shops are not of "the street."

Each of the above mentioned leather boxes is carried by two clerks sent from the broker's office to which it is bound, and locked within the vaults of the bank or some trusted employee, such as the cashier. There are leather handles on either end of the box, by which the clerks carry it, and the carriers walk with a brisk step. The representative of the firm who walks behind keeps on a line half way between the carriers and has one eye on the box and one on the people in the street. Some of the wealthier firms instead of having a box for their securities have a leather bag, which is carried by one man and watched by another.

All up and down the sidewalks these moving legs and boxes can be seen during the half hour which is devoted to their transportation. There is little rest in these legs and boxes—sometimes a few thousand dollars which the broker has received after banking hours the day before and put in the safe deposit vault over night, but no great amount.

It is securities, stocks and bonds, representing the ownership of $500,000,000 worth of actual property, that is in them. It is, of course, impossible to estimate the value exactly, but the above figure is a fair approximation.

If it is a day of "bear market," the value represented is (on the principle that a thing is worth what it will fetch) somewhat less; if it is a day of "bull market," more.

It is an interesting object lesson in the affairs of men to see the stream of leather boxes spread itself over Wall street district in the morning and to watch it recede and seek its caves at night. Some of those boxes which started out gay and buoyant in the morning seek the seclusion of their steel dungeons at night sadly depressed, and some that went forth thoroughly come back with an opulent swagger.

While this transfer is being made about a dozen well dressed men, who seem to take only a languid interest in life, may be seen lounging or strolling about at the place where Wall street divides Broad from Nassau, or in that immediate vicinage. They are Wall street detectives, who, appearing to see nothing, see everything. And under their care this half a billion of property is carried through the streets in perfect safety.

Yet even if one could invent some kind of fish weir which would catch these peripatetic boxes and could then get away with them it would do him no good. There would, of course, be Wall street for awhile—until stocks and bonds to replace the stolen ones could be made out—but the stolen securities would promptly be declared void, and as soon as the new ones took their place "Wall street" would reappear.—Detroit Free Press.

Former Pals of Seed.

Up at 4, writing memoirs about the year 1544 till noon, then walked with Dutch cousin (Benjamin Milner of Amsterdam) to Woodside Hill, where, in Cousin Fenton's best chamber, I gathered some of the corn that was falned down the chimney upon the Lord's day seven night, when it likewise rained plentifully of the like upon Headingley Moor, as was confidently reported; but these I gathered with my own hands from the white hearth, which was stained with drops of blue where it had fallen, for it is of a pale red or a kind of sky color, is pretty, and tastes like common wheat, of which I have 100 corns. What it may signify, and whether it doth proceed from natural causes (of which some may be prescribed), or preternatural, such an ignorant creature as I am cannot aver.—"Diary of Thoresby," 1681.

A Considerate Rector.

The rector of a small country parish in the midlands had lived among his people a simple, unobtrusive life, which had endeared him to the hearts of those who knew him. In very cold weather he would invite the congregation to come and warm themselves at the stove before leaving the church. Under other conditions of weather his thoughtfulness for the comfort of his flock took a somewhat different form, and at the end of a half hour's sermon he would sometimes say, "As the weather is still so inclement I will, my dear friends, lengthen my discourse somewhat in the hope that it may clear later."—Cornhill Magazine.

The Cheerful Idiot.

"Women," said the cynical boarder, "seem to be utter failures as negro minstrels."

"Of course," said the cheerful idiot. "It is too much of a strain for a woman to keep her face cocked up for three hours."—Indianapolis Journal.

IF THEY BUT COULD.

How often we hear discontented ones talk
Of grand opportunities lost
And how, by the waves of condemnable luck,
They've ever been ruthlessly tossed.
They'll tell in a sort of disconsolate way
Of laboring always in vain
And how they would handle the contract if they Could live their lives over again.

The man who has failed in his business affairs,
The prisoner locked in his cell,
The wedded ones battling with family cares,
All have the same story to tell.
Wherever we go that disconsolate cry
We hear in a pitiful strain,
"You'd see matters different with me if I Could live my life over again!"

We should never weep over milk that is spilled,
But look around for some more.
We cannot recall opportunities killed
Nor chances blown off from our shore.
This word of advice is the best we can give:
Don't cry over the past sit and brood,
But tackle the future, determined to live
The balance of life as you should.

AMATEUR BOOKBINDING.

How Paper Covered Books May Be Treated at Home.

If you wish to bind for yourself a paper covered book, carefully strip backward the paper cover, trim the frayed edges and lay the cover aside. With a sharp awl bore fresh holes through the back, as close to the back as may be without danger of breaking. Sew the leaves together lengthwise through these holes with a fine cord or coarse darning cotton, knotting it securely. Take a strip of cotton or linen cloth and sew singly over the back, following the line and stitches already taken. fastening well.

This strip must be made wide enough to allow an inch on each side to be pasted upon the boards when ane to form the cover. Cut the two pasteboards with care, allowing a bit to extend beyond the leaves in length and depth, referring to any well bound volume as a model of proportion, the depth of the cover protecting the leaves.

Having good flour paste, scalded but not boiled, brush the lap of the muslin lower at each side of the back and place the side board upon this strip, fitting it exactly, making sure that this adheres and being careful to wipe away the paste oozing out. Then paste over all the back, bringing down over the pasteboards an inch or more a generous backing of stout silesia of any color. This should be doubled in at the top and bottom to strengthen the silesia in its future wear.

Next, having cut from stout wrapping paper two pieces sufficiently large to bring over top, bottom and front edges of the boards, brush the paper over its entire surface with paste and apply it dexterously to the boards, having its truest edge neatly applied to the silesia. Then folding over top bottom and front, cut the corners asiant, as the sides are brought over upon the inside of what now may be called the cover. Lastly apply upon this tough paper the original front cover of the volume. If it has been soiled in the least, wash its face delicately with a cloth dipped in soapy water and dry it carefully.

If the back of the original is presentable and has character worth preserving, paste that upon the back of the new cover. Last of all paste within the fresh fly leaf. Then for each cover or half of the cover prepare a double sheet of pretty paper, possibly colored, one-half of which shall be pasted perfectly to line the insides of the cover, the other left loose as an ornamental leaf. Before the silesia is quite dry with the bow of the scissors run along heavily the ridge of the board where it meets the back of the book. Repeat this while the work is drying to insure a fixed depression, a gutter, which gives a finished style and admits easy play in opening and shutting the new bound book.

Making sure that no splash of paste is overlooked, now place clean paper around the volume and lay it where it will rest evenly under a heavy weight. Before it is quite dry iron it well with a moderately heated iron, which should be moved discreetly over all the pasted parts, neither scorching nor ruffling the papers. In rebinding several books, if they have varied only a little in size, they may be brought to a uniform appearance by judicious cutting of the covers.

Much of the contriving for bookbinding may be done before the paste work begins. If the measuring and cutting of the boards and the outer paper and inner and outer muslins be done at one time, the work is well begun and may be left for the day. When at the real work of binding, one must move rapidly on, not doing half upon one book and as much upon the other, then going back to the first, but the first book must be entirely finished and put under press before the pasting upon the other begins.

When once the brush is dipped in the paste cup, it is better not to be interrupted, as imperfect drying disorders or blisters the paper and warps the boards. Attention and accuracy secure good results.—New York Tribune.

The British Army's Retired List.

According to a table in The Broad Arrow, we have on the active list 8 field marshals, 20 generals, 30 lieutenant generals, 116 major generals and 29 local major generals and brigadiers, or in all as many as 212. On retired pay we have 66 generals, 65 lieutenant generals, 184 major generals, or in all 314. On the unemployed Indian list we have 178 generals, 63 lieutenant generals and 442 major generals and some of other, often nominal, sorts of generals. In all there are 8 field marshals, 264 generals, 183 lieutenant generals, 1,254 major generals, 29 local major generals and brigadiers, thus giving a grand total of 1,788 general officers. With 1,526 generals who have no work to do it is no wonder that the noneffective vote is so heavy or that India, which carries nearly half of them on her shoulders, is crushed under the burden of taxation in the raising of which she has no voice.—London Chronicle.

CLOTH GOWN WITH WIDE COLLAR FROM HARPER'S BAZAR

Cloth Gown With Wide Collar.

A smart little indoor gown of a very simple model, and one that might be copied in the spring materials, is of cloth. The skirt measures three and a half yards around the foot. It is gored, but not exaggeratedly so, and the fulness in the back is gathered. The back of the waist is all in one piece stretched tight over a fitted lining, and has a little basque, which shows below the belt. A cut paper pattern of the waist, skirt and sleeves is issued by Harper's Bazar where the gown appears. The belt is of black satin, laid in folds and fastened in the center of the back with three small buttons. The front of the waist is blowsed and has a turned-over wide square collar that extends over the sleeves, which are very small. The collar is made of a shaded pink velvet on which are designs in guipure lace, and there is a narrow edge of silver braid all around. There is a square yoke, of which only a little shows, made of shaded green taffeta, and the high stock-collar is also of tucked green taffeta. At the back of the collar is a small arrangement of velvet edged with lace. The skirt of this gown is trimmed with three bands of black fancy braid.

"IMPERIAL FRESNO,"

A Splendid Book

RESOURCES, INDUSTRIES AND SCENERY OF THE COUNTY

Illustrated and Described.

A beautiful souvenir to send to your friends at a distance. Mountain and valley illustrated by fine half-tone engravings. The book is printed on the most expensive paper and handsomely bound. It is descriptive, statistical, illustrative—and a complete expository of Fresno county.

WHAT SOME OF THE LEADING PAPERS SAY OF IT.

From the Sacramento Bee.

The Bee has received a copy of "Imperial Fresno," a beautiful souvenir of some 160 pages, issued by the FRESNO REPUBLICAN, and representing its own letter press. The work is modeled closely on the line of the Bee's souvenir, and takes rank with the most artistic volumes ever issued in this state. We have never seen a more tastefully gotten up collection of pictures than that which adorns its pages.

As the preface says, the book is published to advertise Fresno county; to present to the reader views that will as far as possible tell their own story. Let us follow the preface further, and learn that "here is a country as large as some of the New England states; here is a valley sixty to eighty miles wide, irrigated by perpetual snows; here is rivers fed by perpetual snows; here is almost uninterrupted sunshine, and a soil that is remarkably fertile; here are orchards, vineyards and gardens rich as any watered by the Arahana, or grown on isles in Southern seas."

Yes, Fresno is a county of which its people should be proud, and this souvenir is a work which every citizen of Fresno should most enthusiastically endorse. No paper could have given the task of preparing such a volume better intelligence than the REPUBLICAN has shown, and every page, where it is not adorned with some superb illustration, is bristling with just the sort of information a person interested in the county would want to know. The Bee knows well what a tremendous amount of labor is required to present such a work, and it most cordially extends its congratulations to its live and enterprising contemporary at Fresno.

From the Oakland Tribune.

The souvenir edition of the FRESNO REPUBLICAN is a distinct advance in modern journalism. There is none of the "special edition" air about "Imperial Fresno," and it is a magazine rather than a newspaper. The handsome brochure is a beautiful picture gallery, and from the splendidly colored plate in the front to the photograph of Masonic Temple on the last page, the interest of an intelligent person cannot possibly flag for an instant.

It fulfills its purpose of creating interest in and of holding up the mirror of Fresno county's value. The REPUBLICAN has paid its county a debt which was justly due, and it has paid it in honest money. There is nothing suggestive of a 48-cent dollar about the souvenir, and as its pages are scanned it is easily seen that truth marks every page. Very few people care to wade through figures and tables and dull looking statistics, but when these valuable sources of information are breezily written and handsomely illustrated they cannot fail to interest and enthuse.

The hundreds of pictures are a revelation even to many who think they are moderately posted on Fresno county. Here is a county as large as some of the New England states; here is a valley sixty to eighty miles wide, irrigated by broad canals led down from rivers fed by perpetual snows; here is almost uninterrupted sunshine, and a soil that is remarkably fertile, and here are orchards, vineyards and gardens rich as any in the world. All these features, and many more, are handled in "Imperial Fresno," and no one can claim that their information on this county is up to date unless they procure and read this souvenir.

From the Sacramento Record-Union.

"Imperial Fresno" is the title of a half quarto volume of many pages from the press of the FRESNO REPUBLICAN, as a souvenir of that journal. In all the list of county expository illustrated volumes, we have seen nothing handsomer than this beautiful book, in stiff leatherette covers, on heavy calendered paper, with the art work in the shape of the best half-tone engravings.

The book is expository of the resources, industries and scenery of Fresno county. It is not a bewildering complication of statistical tables, but rather a concise, clear and all around readable account of the productions, the soil capacity, the climate, the industries of the people, the commercial development and promise of the section, and the social and business life of the people.

It is at once an entertaining volume for those interested in California development and upbuilding, an attractive book for those with an eye for the beautiful and a valuable work in the line of advancing and expanding knowledge of California and the possibilities of her soil and climate. The issue is one of infinite credit to the taste and enterprise of an intelligent, wide-awake and courageous paper.

From the Placer Argus.

We acknowledge the receipt of "Imperial Fresno," the finely executed souvenir issued by the FRESNO REPUBLICAN. Here are about 160 pages, each the perfection of art. The half tone cuts of public buildings, residences, vineyards, ranch and harvest scenes give an excellent idea not only of this "queen city of the San Joaquin" but the county at large. In the opening pages is a very beautiful poem by A. J. Waterhouse, until lately on the staff of the REPUBLICAN.

Taken as a whole from cover to cover the souvenir does great credit to our brothers of the REPUBLICAN. While we would not join in the sentiment that Fresno bids fair to become a leading summer resort except in elevated thermometrical records, yet we are stuck on Fresno as filled with a kindly, energetic, get-there class of people, and all honor to "Imperial Fresno."

From the Selma Enterprise.

"Imperial Fresno" is the title chosen by the REPUBLICAN for its souvenir issued on the date at which the leading daily of the valley attained its majority. To say that it is a splendid specimen of the art preservative is but simple justice and many adjectives might be used before the limit of deserved praise was reached. Moreover the work was done in Fresno. It is a home production of which we may all feel proud.

The illustrations give, in an attractive form, actual scenes, and while they are typical, they are necessarily limited and might be multiplied almost indefinitely without exhausting the resources of "Imperial Fresno." It is just the thing to send to eastern friends as a holiday present.

From the San Francisco Chronicle.

The remarkable progress of Fresno county since the introduction of irrigation in 1869 is most entertainingly stated in "Imperial Fresno," a souvenir just issued by the FRESNO DAILY REPUBLICAN. The souvenir is a composition of the resources, industries and scenery of Fresno county. It contains 143 pages of matter germane to the fertile region it represents, and as a medium designed to attract the attention of home seekers and investors, cannot fail to result in great benefit to the raisin center of California.

The story of the splendid results of irrigation in turning what for many years was regarded as a worthless desert waste into one of the greatest raisin, wine, fruit and grain sections of California is told in a most attractive way. The illustrations are gems of their kind, giving the reader a good idea of the rapid and substantial growth of Fresno city and the thriving colonies of splendid orchards, vineyards and farms that have sprung up all over the country adjacent since the advent of magic water.

The beauty and grandeur of the mountainous regions of the county are shown in views of Kings River canyon, a fallen monarch of the forest in General Grant park, splendid trout streams in the Sierras and other choice bits of scenery. Altogether the souvenir is a superb piece of newspaper enterprise worthy of the live publishers of the REPUBLICAN.

"IMPERIAL FRESNO" is on sale at the REPUBLICAN office and at the stationers' stores.

TOWNE COMING

The Silver Advocate Will Speak in Fresno.

Meeting Last Evening to Make Arrangements For His Reception.

Last evening there was a meeting in the office of W. D. Crichton of persons interested in having C. A. Towne, the eloquent silver advocate from Minnesota, speak in Fresno this month.

Those present at the meeting did not seem frantic over the cause of silver. Even Ben Hill sat over in a corner and did not say anything about 16 to 1. W. J. Tinnin noted the fact that only five lawyers were present, and said that this accounted for the meeting being so free from oratorical outbursts. Such phrases as "the white metal," "money of the constitution," "gold bugs," etc., were not heard, which is surely an evidence of waning enthusiasm.

Among the persons in attendance were E. D. Edwards, Judge Bell, W. D. Crichton, R. Harrell, Ed. Hughes, J. E. F. Edwards, W. J. Tinnin, John Chaddock, Ben Hill, O. L. Everts, H. V. Parker and G. H. Bonaffon.

H. V. Parker was elected chairman and W. D. Crichton secretary.

Chairman Parker stated that Mr. Towne was an orator and thinker of national reputation and one of the leading silver advocates. A letter had been received by the chairman stating that Mr. Towne could be secured for Fresno about the 14th inst.

It was decided to have the address at an earlier date if it could be arranged. The opera house, it was stated, could not be secured on the 14th and the silver men thought that no other place would be suitable for the meeting.

A finance committee composed of E. D. Edwards, O. L. Everts and J. E. Hughes, and a committee on arrangements composed of G. H. Bonaffon, W. J. Tinnin and J. E. F. Edwards, were appointed by the chairman.

The chairman will appoint a reception committee at a later date.

The committee on arrangements will meet this afternoon at W. J. Tinnin's office.

THE ATHLETIC CLUB.

Meeting of the Board of Directors Last Evening.

The members of the board of directors of the Fresno Athletic Club had an important meeting last evening. The condition of the finances and the general interests of the club were discussed. It was ascertained that the club is in good shape financially and strong in membership, as over 250 persons belong to the organization.

Owing to the increased membership the water facilities for baths are insufficient and it is intended to put in a large new tank. There are two tanks at present with a capacity of 1300 gallons each. The new tank will be large enough to hold 2500 gallons, nearly doubling the capacity for furnishing water. Messrs. Redlick, Tuxton, Donahoo and Jennings were appointed a committee to investigate in regard to the cost, etc., of a new tank and report at the next meeting.

It was also decided to give a ladies' night at an early date. There will be a musical and athletic program, and the event will no doubt be a popular success. Messrs. Woldenberg, Duncan, Luxon and Redlick were appointed a committee to prepare a program, set the date and make all necessary arrangements for the occasion.

Thirteen new members were admitted last night. The new board of directors and officers desire to greatly increase the membership during the next few months, and will make special efforts to add new names to the list of members.

I. O. G. T. INSTALLATION.

Literary Program and Open Meeting Last Evening.

Neal Dow lodge, I. O. G. T., met last evening in Edgerly hall and installed officers. Rev. F. E. Coulter of Selma, the grand councilor, conducted the installation of the following officers: B. H. Hoag, P. C. T.; Walter Bants, marshal; Carrie Knobloch, assistant marshal; Lizzie Gabeler, guard; Ray Dore, sentinel; H. O. Shelton, secretary; Howard Peterson, assistant secretary; George Lee, financial secretary; Miss Ida Tully, V. T.; A. C. Bants, C. T.

A short musical and literary program followed and consisted of a recitation by Errett Shelton; recitation, Miss Nellie Peterson; quartet, A. A. Smith, S. M. Ingram, J. W. Livermore, and Miss Livermore; select reading, William Harvey; remarks, Rev. G. W. Gray; recitation, Vernon Peterson; recitation, Miss Florence Kelly; address, Rev. F. E. Coulter; quartet, A. A. Smith, J. W. Livermore, Miss Livermore and S. M. Ingram.

OUR WAR SHIPS

Movements of the White Squadron.

The Vessels Hovering Within Easy Range of the Cuban Shore.

WASHINGTON, February 4.—The navy department has received a telegram from Captain Converse of the cruiser Montgomery announcing the arrival of that vessel at Matanzas, Cuba, yesterday. The Captain said he fired a salute which was duly responded to by the Spanish forts, the visits were exchanged between himself and the local officials and that he had been received with the greatest courtesy. Everything was unusually quiet at Matanzas, added Captain Converse. He will leave the place in the Montgomery tomorrow for Santiago, and his stay there will be brief.

The Brooklyn, which is bound for a cruise in the Windward islands, and thence through the Carribean sea, winding up at Colon, sailed today from the New York navy yard for Hampton Roads for coal. She will make her next stop after leaving Hampton Roads at St. Thomas, and her itinerary does not carry her into any Cuban port. The training ship Annapolis has arrived at St. Croix and the gunboat Wilmington has sailed from Trinidad for Grenada.

It is said at the navy department that the vessels of the European squadron will rendezvous at Lisbon in a short time. When Commodore Howell passed through Washington recently on his way to take command of the European station he asked if the navy department objected to his making a northern cruise with his squadron. He was told that the ships had been kept in the Mediterranean by Admiral Selfridge of his own volition after the subsidence of the disturbance resulting from the Turko-Grecian war and that the department left the movement of his ships entirely to himself. He therefore was granted the permission he sought and announced that he will bring his force together at Lisbon.

A cablegram from him announces that he relieved Admiral Selfridge and took command of the Europen station at Genoa on the 2d instant, and it is expected that he will take his flagship, the San Francisco, and the gunboat Bancroft around to Lisbon very soon.

A Thousand Passengers.

TACOMA, Wash., February 4.—The steamship Queen, the fleetest vessel of the Pacific waters, and which has hitherto been the summer excursion ship to the ice fields of Alaska, sailed from Tacoma tonight for Skaguay and Dyea. She carried northward 1000 passengers, 1300 tons of freight, 200 dogs, 30 horses and a score of dressed cattle, hogs and sheep, the latter for the markets of the coast cities, Juneau, Skaguay and Dyea.

Buying Furs.

It is a novel experience of the woman who does her shopping abroad to find that she makes nothing whatever by purchasing her furs on the other side. All the choicest furs come in duty free, and so skillful are American workmen in preparing and dressing them that many European houses send their furs to this country to be finished for making up.—Exchange.

PLENTY OF MOSS

Reindeer Will Not Starve in Alaska.

The Government Team Now on on the Way Here From Sweden.

WASHINGTON, February 4.—A cablegram received at the war department from Dr. Jackson at Alton, Sweden, announces that the Manitoban, chartered by Lieut. Devore for the government has just sailed from that port for New York with 530 reindeer and 87 Laplanders to care for the animals and drive them on the government relief expedition when they arrive at Alaska.

The war department is now making arrangements for the transportation of the deer across the continent from New York to Seattle. In answer to inquiries that have been made at the department's instance as to the probability of finding in Alaska the moss upon which the reindeer feeds altogether in his native country, the bureau of education has submitted some correspondence its agents have had on this subject.

The inquiry had special reference to the vicinity of the Chilkat region and samples of the Norwegian moss were sent up there for identification. In response the Presbyterian missionary at Haines, Mr. W. W. Ware, writes as follows: "The reindeer moss came by the last mail and I have been asking a good many natives and whites about it. The net outcome is that there is very little indeed along the coast, but 50 miles over the coast range there is a great abundance. Some say the whole country is covered. I accept the statement with some reservation, but I should judge that there must be a great deal."

LINDSAY TALKS.

Represents Kentucky, Not Its Legislature.

WASHINGTON, February 4.—Speaking to a question of personal privilege in the senate today, Mr. Lindsay, Democrat of Kentucky, commented sharply on the motives of the authors and promoters of the resolution recently passed by the legislature demanding his resignation as Senator.

Mr. Lindsay, after defining his position on the financial question, made it clear that he was the representative of the whole people of Kentucky and not in any sense the agent of the Kentucky legislature. Above all he was, he said, a senator for the whole American people, and as such would perform his duties and cast his vote in accordance with his convictions and with the dictates of his conscience. No business of importance was transacted in the brief open session. After the executive session of three hours the senate adjourned until Monday.

RUSSIAN HARVEST FIELDS

A Failure Causes the Peasantry Great Suffering.

LONDON, February 5.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Times says: A failure in the harvest has caused terrible distress among the peasantry of the interior provinces and especially in central and southeastern Russia. In some places they are worse off than during the famine of 1891. The Russian electors have been forbidden to refer to the matter.

Private letters from Tamboff, in the province of that name, southeast of Moscow, say the peasants are feeding their half-starved cattle with the thatches of their roofs. Typhus and other diseases are making rapid headway among them.

To Begin the Tunnel.

SAN FRANCISCO, February 4.—Messrs. Muir and Foley, the St. Paul contractors, who were awarded last Tuesday the contract to construct the 500-foot tunnel of the San Francisco and San Joaquin Valley railroad in Contra Costa county, have arrived in the city. They will arrange tomorrow to file a bond of $100,000 with the directors of the company to insure a faithful performance of the contract. They expect to begin boring the tunnel on March 5th next. It will require 500 days of continuous work to complete the tunnel.

A Freight Conductor Killed.

WOODLAND, February 4.—Forest Davis, conductor of a freight train from Redding for Sacramento, was killed here this evening. There was no witness to the accident. Davis was last seen alive standing on the crossing signalling his engineer to back. Davis' mangled remains were afterwards discovered by the engineer after the cars and engine had passed over the body, portions of which were scattered about the track for a distance of thirty feet. Davis resided in Sacramento.

Of no Value Now.

SAN FRANCISCO, February 4.—W. A. Durrant, the father of the late Theodore Durrant, received from Property Clerk Moran today the personal effects taken from the murderer at the time of his arrest, nearly three years ago.
